POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Tearful perhaps because at least 50,000 baseball fans couldn't get into the Yankee stadium yesterday, with 63,000 others, old man Neptune bent his muscular old form over the polo grounds today and cried copiously. He may have been crying for the owners of the New York Nationals and the New York Yankees who get most of the coin, poured in today because at noon time it didn't look as though the magpies would get broken backs carrying away the money. The rain which fell in a steady drizzle all morning until noon showed away the early risers the fellows with $1.10 had no trouble getting a good seat in the bleachers. At one o'clock there was a fringe of customers around the upper tier of the double grandstand but only about half a dozen cash patrons in the reserved section at that hour and this despite the possibility that the world's series of 1923 might end today.

The drizzle was damming to the size of the crowd but it didn't seriously injure the diamond. When the tarpaulin was peeled off the infield the turf looked soft but playable and after a critical examination had been conducted by a signal of experts on loan it was decided to play today.

M. H. S. AGAIN IS FOOTBALL WINNER

Defeat Lebanon High 12 to 6—Play Harlan Friday—Boys in Good Condition

Middlesboro won the third game of football this season from Lebanon high 12 to 6. The game was a hard fought one from start to finish. Lebanon outweighed the local team several pounds to a man. There were no injuries and all the Middlesboro boys were able to be out for practice today, in good condition. The next game is with Harlan at Harlan, Friday afternoon.

The game started with Middlesboro pushing the ball for a touchdown in the first quarter. M. H. S. kicked off and after holding Lebanon, recovered a fumble about the middle of the field. Kinnel broke through the line for a nice gain of about 25 yards, then short off-tackle plays by King and Fahoner put the ball over. King missed goal. M. H. S. put over another touchdown in the second quarter by a steady march down field aided by a 40-yard run by King.

The third quarter was decidedly a Lebanon victory. They made a touchdown in a very few minutes. Their big fullback was a power of strength and made most of their gains. M. H. S. outplayed the visitors in the fourth. The home team completed four out of five forward passes and played a better game than any time previously. Tackling was better as was team work. Callison and King played exceptionally good games. The whole team worked well and it is hard to pick the individual star. The big fullback was decidedly Lebanon's star. The visitors were highly pleased with their treatment here and complimented Middlesboro's clean playing.

REDS AND PROH VIOLATORS SAME KIND SAYS BORAH

Idaho Senator in Address Yesterday Plays Mah of Property Who Breaks Eighteenth Amendment

INSISTS ON HOLDING TO LETTER OF CONSTITUTION

Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Wealthy Americans who violate the Eighteenth Amendment and "reds" who denounce constitutional provisions designed to protect property, Senator Borah of Idaho, declared in an address here today, "are both traveling the road of lawlessness, sowing the seeds of destruction and undermining the whole fabric of law and order." The Senator spoke before the Citizenship Conference on "Shall the Constitution of the United States be Nullified?"

"The hot bed, noisy rendezvous of lawlessness, of cynical defiance to the Eighteenth Amendment," he declared, "are among those of social standing of large property interests, and in the wealthier homes. Without their patronage, their protection and their example, the bootlegger would be easily within the control of the law. The 'red' sits in his darkly lighted room around his poorly laden table and denounces those provisions of the Constitution placed there to protect property. The 'white' sits in his brightly lighted room about his richly laden table, and defies or denounces the provision of the Constitution placed there in the belief it would protect the home."

"The man of property, of course, is deeply concerned in preserving respect for law, for that is his protection to property. Do not they assume a sinister hazard in defying or disregarding any part of this Constitution? So long as this amendment remains a part of the great Charter, you not only strike at this amendment but at the whole structure of a government of law when you disobey its mandates. This provision of the Constitution is in the Constitution is the same authority, carries the same force and sanctity as the 18th Amendment which throws the protecting shelter of the whole government around life and property. The spirit of lawlessness which undermines the one will in time destroy the other."

May Change Constitution

"These men have a perfect right to change the Constitution, or any part of it, in the way by which changes are permitted. But so long as it stands there, it is entitled to their earnest and conscientious support. You cannot have your protection to property, your security for life, the things which you prize and deeply cherish, if you continue to teach disregard for the things which challenge your opposition. What one-sidedness may like another may dislike, and we shall soon witness a general assault upon the whole structure."

Declaring that the prohibition amendment is "the storm center now of the Constitution," Senator Borah continued:

"It is in the Constitution after years of agitation and discussion, after 33 states had already adopted state-wide prohibition laws, after long debates in the Congress, after consideration by the State legislatures, and after ratification by 46 states of the Union. Surely no one can candidly claim that this amendment is in the Constitution by accident or as a result of undue haste."

At another juncture he remarked:

"Prohibitionist, or anti-prohibitionist, sober or drunk, we ought as citizens be loyal to our common country and be willing to support the law so long as it is the law."

One Provision Like Others

With the observation that "the guarantees of the Constitution are the most sacred guarantees in behalf of civil liberty ever placed in any instrument or government," Senator Borah declared he was of the opinion that "if any one provision of the Constitution could be regarded as more vital to the cause of freedom than any other, it would be the first amendment, which guarantees free speech, a free press and the right to worship God

COOKE, GILES STAY IN RACE

Question of Eligibility Now up To the County Officers—Primary Is Saturday

As yet as to his intentions this morning in regard to the commissioners' race, Charles L. Cooke stated that he had been out of the city for several days attending the grand lodge, and that he was not aware of his failure to comply with the Kentucky statutes in filing his petition of candidacy until he returned. He went to Pineville today to see that his petition was properly verified and also to file his expense account with clerk and the election officer, the sheriff of the county. Whether this will effect his eligibility for the race is yet to be determined.

"I wish it distinctly understood that I am an independent candidate, and that I have entered the race only at the earnest solicitation of my friends. I am not aligned with any particular all my friends. I am leaving the verities in who is in the race, as they are dict with the people."

H. R. Giles stated this morning that he had filed his expense account Saturday, and that he would remain in the race. He felt sure that he would not be declared ineligible.

The names of both Mr. Cooke and Mr. Giles have been left on the primary ticket and, if they are declared ineligible the six candidates for commissioner will be voted on Saturday.

SPEAKS TONIGHT ON TEMPERANCE

Mrs. Le Mance at Courtroom at 7:30 p. m.—Spoke to School Children This Morning

Mrs. Lora S. LeMance, national organizer and lecturer for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and well-known traveler and writer, will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the courtroom of the city hall on "Prohibition and Law Enforcement." Mrs. Le Mance was in Harlan County and in around Pineville last week and goes from here to Barrenville and on out through this district.

Mrs. Le Mance spoke before the children of the public schools this morning at the Central school auditorium on physical development and care of the body. She brought out in particular the fact that our ancestors, because they did more physical work than we, were much stronger physically and could indulge in excesses much better than we. Making her point on smoking and drinking in this manner. She is an unusually convincing speaker and Supt. J. W. Brader recommended her as one of the most interesting speakers he has heard in a long time.

according to the dictates of one's conscience."

"But such are the effects of war in breeding hate and intolerance that men are in prison today and have been for six years in absolute violation of the fundamental principles of the first amendment to the Constitution, there, not for violence, not for assaults upon life or property, but for the expression of their political views. But what is even more startling, they are there without any legal evidence upon which to hold them."

"I would count myself a whining hypocrite to come here to insist upon the enforcement of the 18th amendment and remain silent upon the utter disregard of the first amendment, which guarantees free speech, a free press and the right to worship God

SAN FRANCISCO IS MECCA THIS WEEK OF LEGION

Fifth Annual Meeting of World War Men—Bonus, Disarmament, Orphan's Care, Topics to Be Considered

MORE THAN 150,000 LEGIONNAIRES EXPECTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 15.—San Francisco has surrendered. The Golden Gate metropolis capitulates in the face of an invading horde of 150,000 American Legionnaires and turns over the keys of the city to veterans of the World War, who will constitute an army of occupation during the legion's fifth annual convention here. Oct. 15 to 19.

The convention will be a combination of work and play. There will be division reunions, parades, dances—even fleet maneuvers—to regale the ex-service men. And there will be serious business. Problems expected to be in the forefront of debate when the legion assemblies include:

Measures urging more stringent immigration laws.

A program for solving the problems of disabled war veterans.

Provisions for orphans of World War veterans.

A more strenuous Americanization program.

An international air disarmament conference.

And, last but not least, the old question of adjusted compensation.

Bonus Up Again

The problem of adjusted compensation, or a national bonus, may furnish most of the smoke of the legion's sessions. It is not unlikely that the election of national commander will hinge around the bonus battle.

The question, it is believed, will come up in the form of resolution advocating that Congress pass a compensation measure. That Congress will do so at its next session is conceded by some of the bonus foremost opponents, including Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland. But, according to forecast, the bonus question will become involved with amendments, modifications and provisions to such an extent that the measure will occupy much of the convention's time.

Legion leaders, it is predicted, all will be drawn into this debate, and thus it may become the real battle-ground for the commandship candidates.

More stringent immigration laws will be urged as part of the legion's fight against radicalism. Advocates argue that the manpower already in the country is ample for the work here, and that laxer immigration laws will create an unwelcome and unemployed surplus. The supply of un-Americanized foreigners, they contend, more than taxes the machinery for Americanizing them, and they will propose suspending all immigration for five years.

Provisions for orphans of World War veterans will be advocated in two measures, one arguing for a national home and the other proposing their care be a matter to be handled through state divisions.

Questions concerning the still unsolved problems of disabled veterans also will be taken up, as well as proposals to endorse a national defense act and establishment of a citizen army. The movement for an international air disarmament conference was started some months ago by Legion Commander Alvin Owsley through the Legion Weekly and has strong support.

Big Attendance

Delegates, of whom there will be 2,000 and as many alternates be arriving here Oct. 13, along with the vanguard of the 150,000 visiting Legionnaires. Nationally and internationally known men are expected from all parts of the world.

Already, acceptances of invitations have been received from General Haller of Poland and from various dignitaries of South American republics. Among the prominent Americans expected to attend are General Pershing, Admiral R. E. Coontz, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Secretary of Navy Weeks, General Frank T. Hines, director of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau; John J. Tigert, commissioner of education; Judge Landis and Samuel Gompers.

PINEVILLE MAN ROBBED TODAY $4,500 PAYROLL

P. C. Bowling, Bookkeeper for Roth Coal Co., Held Up by Masked Bandits Between Arjay and Heyburn This Morning

NO CLUE TO ROBBERS—BLOODHOUNDS SENT FOR

Associated Press
PINEVILLE, Oct. 15.—P. C. Bowling, bookkeeper for the Roth Coal Co., of Heyburn, reported today that he was held up by two masked men on the road between Arjay and Heyburn, and robbed of the company's payroll of $4,500. The men escaped into the hills. Bowling was conveying the money from Arjay to Heyburn when he met the two men on the road. Bloodhounds from Lexington are expected during the day to take the trail.

Little information in regard to the robbery, other than the Associated Press report, was available at the sheriff's office in Pineville today. They said Bowling left Pineville on the 6 o'clock train this morning for the mines. He got off the train at Arjay about 6:30 and started to walk to the company, where he was accosted by two men who took the payroll away from him and escaped to the woods. Bowling was not hurt in any way. No clue to the bandits has been found as yet.

COOLIDGE FIRM ON PROHIBITION

Haynes Says President's Position Is As Uncompromising as Late Pres. Harding's

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Assurance that the Coolidge administration, like that of President Harding, stands squarely for prohibition enforcement was given by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes in an address Saturday at the opening session of the citizenship conference on enforcement called by the Federal Council of Churches. Haynes urged friends of prohibition to awaken to the insidious propaganda which he charged was being directed against the dry law. Today's meeting was called to adopt a practical program for awakening the "moral force of the nation" to the need of law observance.

PRIDDY DIES SATURDAY, THIRD VICTIM LAST WEEK'S WRECK

S. B. Priddy, 52, of Knoxville, construction foreman for Hubbard Construction company, succumbed Saturday morning to injuries received last Saturday afternoon in an automobile wreck, when B. M. Mynatt and J. O. Dean were killed. Mr. Priddy sustained a fractured skull at this time and had been in such condition ever since that no hope was held out for his recovery.

Mr. Priddy had been at work in Middlesboro with the Hubbard company for some time. He had made many friends here, particularly in the M. E. Church, South, where he was a regular attendant. The men's Bible class of the church, of which Mr. Priddy was a member, held a memorial service for him at the Sunday school hour yesterday morning.

Mr. Priddy's body was taken to Morrow, Va., for burial.

A THOUGHT

Fools because of their transgressions and because of their iniquities, are afflicted.—Ps. 107:17.

The compliments of the season to my worthy masters, and a merry first of April to us all. We have all a speck of the motley.—Lamb.

THE PEOPLE ARE INCREASING THEIR POWER

The unusually large increase in the number of citizens who registered during the recent registration days over that of the last election time shows that the people this year are more definitely interested in the affairs of our city, county, and state. When a man qualifies himself as a voter and then goes to the polls to voice his opinion of the men and issues at stake in displays not only his patriotism but also his willingness to assume the obligations of citizenship.

Any community that has a 100 per cent voting citizenship is a progressive community. Its citizens are in the forefront of every good move; its leaders, knowing the power of the people, dare not sponsor any causes other than those for the general good; and its institutions reflect the competent leadership of the appointed officers.

We believe that Middlesboro is on the threshold of a good city government. We feel that our citizens have come to the point where they are going to demand action and results from the officers who they elect. The greatest indictment of the present city government has been inaction, certainly until the last few months, and the citizens of Middlesboro want from this time on vigorous and courageous administration of our municipal affairs. The power of any man or group of men who are looking only to their own interest or to the interest of their faction cannot long endure. The people will not stand for such political chicanery.

Let the politicians take warning from the present heavy registration! It means that the power of the people is doubly increased.

THE OPEN FORUM

Regarding the Primary

Editor Daily News:

If the legality of the candidacy for Commissioner of Mr. C. E. Cooke and H. R. Gies must be decided by court, I suggest that it be done immediately. If they are not candidates, then that decide what four men shall run at the November election. There will be but four men on the primary ticket. This will save the voters time and expenses of a primary.

WEEKS RESENTS FORD ACCUSATION

Takes Statement of Detroit Manufacturer Before Cabinet Meeting Today

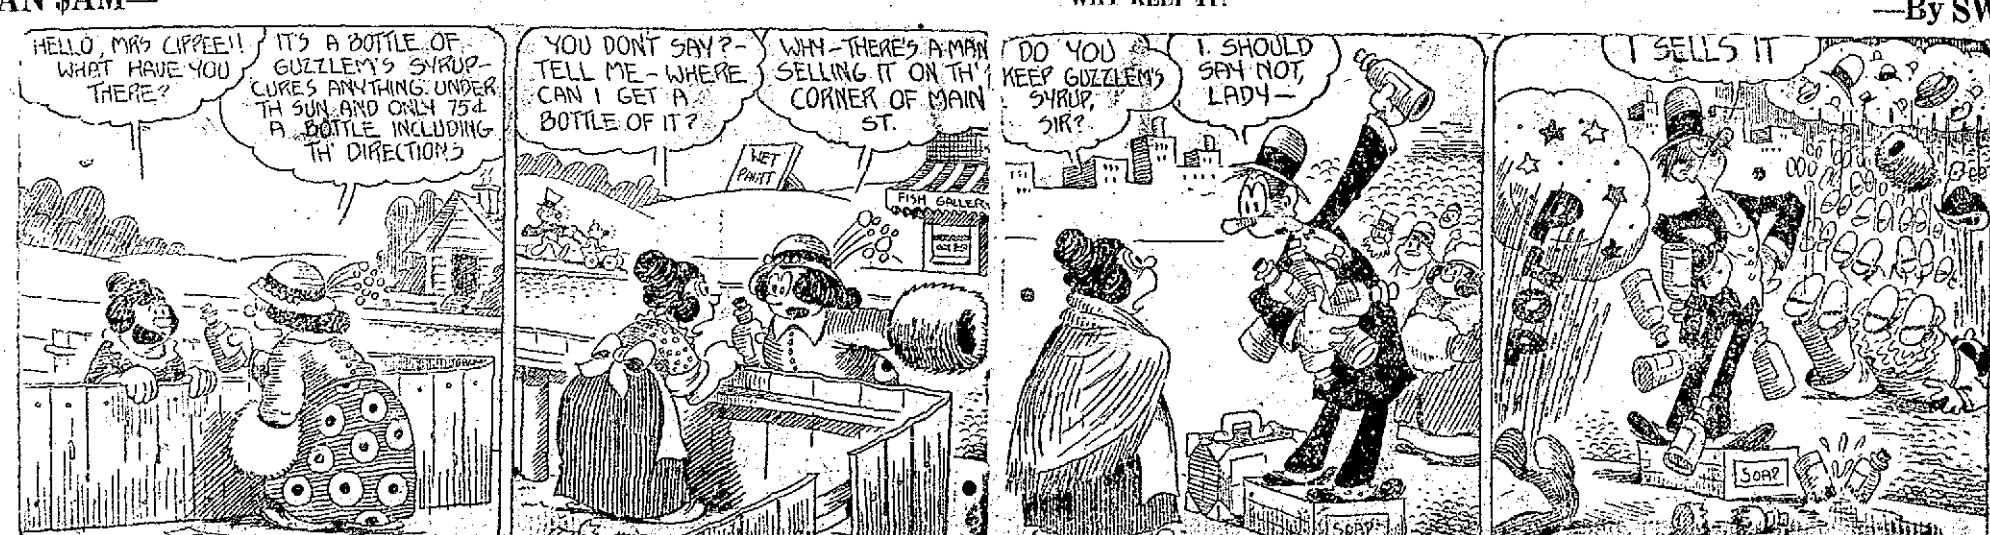

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Secretary Weeks carried into yesterday's cabinet meeting a statement issued in Detroit last night by Henry Ford assailing the war secretary for his action in selling the Gorgas Steam Power Plant, part of Muscle Shoals, Alabama, properties to the Alabama Power Company. Nothing was given out previous to the meeting but officials close to Weeks indicated he resented the statement of the manufacturer and considered it sufficiently grave to take up directly with the president. Ford accused Weeks and his friends of keeping and Turkey, as well as in Alaska, California's offer from coming to a vote in Congress.

LETTER FROM RICHARD SUMMERS TO HIS FIANCEE, BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

MY DEAR BEATRICE:

I am not going to apologize even though I have not written you for two weeks. I don't know where the time has gone. I work early and late. At times it seems to me as though I can never finish what I have begun.

I've written you a good deal about Miss Perier and from your last letter I gathered that something I had said prejudiced you against her. I am sure if you could see her, Bee, you would not feel this way at all. With her quaint little French accent, her constant display of unsophistication, something that is as rare in Hollywood as a goat with upper teeth, she is a peculiarly appealing little figure.

And oh, how she does work! In all this town, I do not believe there are two people who work as she and I do. I told her this the other evening and she said: "It is to forget I work, monsieur. What is it for that you work?"

I started to tell her that I was working to get home to bring you to, Bee, and someday, I cannot tell why, the words died in my throat. It was not because I did not want her to know it, neither was it because I was not working for that, but some way I just couldn't tell her that's all.

I simply made some foolish remark about it being impossible for me to let up work whether I wanted to or not.

This is a beautiful spot out here, Bee, and yet I am almost sure you won't like it. You are too conventional. Your life is bounded by too many rules to see any merit in these people who work like demons when they do work and play and leave away the hours when they are not working in a way that I have never known grown people to do before.

You intimated in your last letter that you were ready to come if I wanted you. Of course I want you and yet I just can't see my way clear to come to you.

Mr. Weinstein said the other day it would probably be a year before I would be able to get out of town. Of course I never would have the temerity to ask you to come to me, for you are not the girl, Bee, to cross the continent to marry the man you love. You would rather wait, I am sure, until I can come to you. I will then have that hangover and have it fixed absolutely in the way that will make you more than comfortable when I get you here.

I must close now, dear, because word has just come to me that Paula Perier has fainted on the set and they are having hard work to revive her. Poor girl, I knew something like this would happen to her. She has been working altogether too hard.

Your devoted

DICK

Berton Braley's Poem

THE FACTS OF THE MATTER

I do not wave my country's flag
On every opportunity
Nor care to pull a lot of brag
About my home community:
But as I travel to and fro
And wander anywhere I can,
I'm not at all ashamed to show
That I am an American.

I know there's plenty we can learn
From other countries various,
Some lessons which we shouldn't spurn
Our faults are multifarious:
We are not perfect, but a bit,
And yet my information is
That we are much more close to it
Than any other nation is.

I do not shrink this thought aloud,
But none the less I'm feeling it.
My patriotic soul is proud,
In spite of my concealing it.
I do not shout my land's acclaim,
But modestly I tune a verse
In which I sing my country's fame
As best in all the Universe!

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 15—MISTER DODGER FINDS SOMETHING

So off they all started.

The days got colder and colder in field that Charlie and Bob, the big Squenty-Moo Land. Jack Frost and all his fairy helpers went through the corn-field, sweetening up the yellow pumpkins that grew there, and through grape arbors, coloring the grapes a rich purple and making them sweet, too—and through the apple orchards, putting spice into each winter apple, so it would taste extra fine.

And as for the woods—they got such a painting as never was before, with reds and russets and yellows and browns.

But Farmer Brown looked thoughtful.

Winter was coming and he was trying to decide which ones of the Squenty-Moo folks to sell and which ones to keep over the cold weather.

Now Mister Dodger knew what was going on in Farmer Brown's mind, and he was worried.

He said so to Nancy and Nick, and they talked it over and tried to think of something to do to help Farmer Brown out of his troubles, and the barnyard folk as well.

"Let's take a little walk, and perhaps we can think better," suggested Mister Dodger, lighting his corn-cob pipe and putting on his corn-busk hat. They walked through the cornfield and up the lane past the winter wheat field that Charlie and Bob, the big brown horses, had helped to plow. Then they went through the pasture where the cows were, and pretty soon they came to the creek.

And who should be there but Misses Duck and Mister Drake and all their fat children taking a bath.

"Mr., my! But we were dirty!" called Misses Duck. "We got into some black dirt down there in the hollow and we looked like chimney sweeps."

"Black dirt!" exclaimed Mister Dodger. "Show us exactly where it is, please!"

"Follow that little path," said Misses Duck, pointing with her bill. "And you'll come to it."

Away went the three of them, and pretty soon they came to the place. It wasn't a pretty place and nothing much grew there except weeds.

Mister Dodger got down on his knees and picked up some things that looked like black stones. "It's coal!" he cried. "We must let Farmer Brown know at once. Then he can sell it and get enough money to buy food for the Squenty-Moo Landers all winter."

Every word that Mister Dodger said came true. Farmer Brown kept every creature he had in ease and comfort for months to come.

Candidate for City Commissioner

Having complied with all the requirements of law in order to qualify as a CANDIDATE FOR CITY COMMISSIONER, subject to the will of the legal voters in

Primary Election, Saturday, Oct. 20

I desire to advise my friends and supporters that I am in the race until two Commissioners are elected. Many false rumors will be afloat before and on election day in an effort to defeat me, but I ask all deep thinking men and women to weigh well such reports before casting your ballot.

I am not a candidate of any Church; any Lodge or Secret Organization, or supported by any political party or ring.

The voters and taxpayers are entitled to know my attitude regarding City affairs. I will either be elected or defeated on the following platform:

- (1) A sane and sensible management of the City's Financial Affairs;
- (2) A regular and systematic audit of the Treasurer's accounts by CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS, showing the receipts and disbursements made to and by this official and duly publishing same in our City Papers for the information of the taxpayers.
- (3) Regular deposits to the Sinking Funds to retire our already heavy bonded indebtedness, thus enabling taxes to be reduced as quickly as possible.
- (4) An adequate amount of money each year to support our fine school system along all educational lines.
- (5) To give taxpayers in the outlying sections of our Corporate limits needed improvements in keeping with the amount of taxes paid by them.
- (6) To welcome the advice of taxpayers at all time for the best interest of our present and future City.
- (7) To recommend for office men who are polite and courteous, well qualified and will discharge the duties of their office without discrimination as to person or persons.
- (8) I have made no promises to office seekers and will make none during my campaign. Any rumors to this effect are false.
- (9) I advocate in the most economical way possible, the repair and maintenance of our streets to avoid tearing up and rebuilding every few years.
- (10) To become the servant of no ONE— but of all citizens alike.
- (11) To discharge the duties of City Commissioner, if elected, to the best of my ability with respect to the entire Citizenship.

I earnestly ask your support and co-operation in making Middlesboro a larger and better City in which to live.

Respectfully,

J. W. ALLISON.

Grow apace;
A little grass,
A bed of flowers,

A vine clad porch, a chair or two,
A swing with pillows in gay hue,
Some hanging baskets, potted fern,

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Vegetable Odds and Ends
After sweet corn passes the milk stage it's too hard to serve on the cob, but it can be cut off and used in a variety of ways. Longer cooking and careful seasoning is required to make palatable dishes.

As long as there are fresh vegetables quite a saving in the meat bill can be accomplished. If hearty dishes are desired a small amount of meat can be added.

Many of the late vegetables require working up into hearty dishes. Unsettled weather has made them rather imperfect. These blemishes are cut away and the remaining good part used.

Often when potatoes are dug the small ones are considered unworthy of storage. These should be used by the thrifty housewife early in the fall. The potatoes are immature and mealy, much like the early potatoes of summer.

These recipes are suggestions for the use of odds and ends of vegetables. They make nourishing dishes that are both cheap and satisfying.

Hubbins of Corn

Five or six hubbins of corn, 2 or 3 ripe potatoes, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 2 teaspoons butter, 4 or 5 pieces of hot buttered toast, 6 thin slices of bacon.

Score the middle of each row of kernels with a sharp knife. Cut a thin slice from the top and scrape out the heart. This leaves the hulls which have grown tough and hard. Scald and peel tomatoes. Cut in quarters, put tomatoes and corn in a smooth saucepan and stir until the boiling point is reached. If the corn absorbs the tomato juice add one more tomato. Cook, stirring constantly, for 10 to 15 minutes. Add salt, sugar, paprika and butter and cook five minutes longer. Pour over toast arranged on a deep platter. Cover with bacon broiled until crisp and brown.

Scalloped Potatoes

Eight or 10 small new potatoes, 2 teaspoons butter, 1 onion, 1 sweet green pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon paprika.

Parboil potatoes in slightly salted water for 10 minutes. Drain and put in a well buttered baking dish. Melt butter, add onions sliced and fry a golden brown. Sift in flour and stir until smooth. Bring to the boiling point but do not let boil. Add cheese and pepper cut in shreds. Pour over potatoes, season with salt and paprika and bake 30 minutes in a hot oven. Serve in the baking dish.

If you have used part of a head of cabbage in a salad and have the rest left try this scalloped cabbage recipe:

Scalloped Cabbage

Two and one-half cups finely shredded cabbage, 1 teaspoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1-8 teaspoon mustard, 1 cup milk, 1-8 teaspoon butter, 4 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar, paprika and mustard. Mix thoroughly with cabbage. Add milk and mix well. Pour into a well buttered baking dish, dot with bits of butter and covered with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 30 to 40 minutes.

Ripe Beans

If you have overlooked some string beans in your garden you need not let them be wasted. If the pods have become really stringy and uneatable let them stay on the vines until they are dry. Then shell the beans and you have really delicious ripe beans usable in many ways.

A substantial dish can be made with beans of this sort, taking the place of meat. Or the beans are sometimes combined with a little meat merely for the flavor.

These vegetables are not worth while canning or drying for winter use, so eat them while the eating is good. They will of course keep several days as green beans will not. By clever planning the produce from the kitchen garden can be used late into the fall.

Ripe Bean Croquettes

Two cups cooked beans, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 eggs, dried bread crumbs, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 slice onion.

The beans should be cooked until tender and easily mashed. The onion can be cooked with the beans or rubbed through them. Rub beans through a ricer or sieve and work smooth with cream and one egg, unbeaten. Form into small balls, roll in crumbs. Beat egg slightly with two tablespoons milk. Dip balls in egg and roll again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat, drain on brown paper and serve with tomato sauce. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 40 seconds.

Tomato Sauce

Three or four tomatoes, 1 sweet green pepper, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons butter or lard, 1 tablespoon flour, salt and pepper, 1-2 cup boiling water.

Scald tomatoes and cut in quarters. Chop the firm flesh and let the pulp stand in a strainer to remove seeds. Melt butter, add minced onion, pepper, dipped in boiling water to remove thin skin, seeded and minced, and cook five minutes. Care should be taken that the vegetables do not burn, but let them become a pale brown. Add flour and stir well. Stir in boiling water. Add chopped tomatoes and juice and cook, stirring constantly until smooth and of the consistency of cream.

Cream of Ripe Bean Soup

One cup beans, 1 onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons minced celery leaves, 2 tablespoons minced carrots, 3 cups cold water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Put beans on to cook in the water without the other vegetables. Bring to the boiling point and simmer half an hour. Add other vegetables and simmer until beans are soft. Rub through a ricer or strainer.

Melt butter, stir in flour and add milk heated in a double boiler. Beat with a wire whisk until smooth. Add bean puree, season with salt and pepper and bring to the boiling point but do not let boil.

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

by Carol Colbourne

New York—If Oliver Wendell Holmes' saying that civilization advances as one climbs stairs is true, its peak is reached in the de luxe bungalow built on top of a thirty-five story skyscraper at Bowling Green, New York City. In the midst of a veritable hanging garden, in this modern Babylon the owner has most luxurious surroundings and it is difficult to equal. On pressing a button the glass facade facing the harbor noiselessly slides up turning the living room into a loggia. Another pressure sends a balcony, teeming with life, over hidden stairs out into the star-lit flower garden. There is a perfectly appointed gymnasium, swimming pool and billiard room. Bungalows on the roofs are becoming more and more popular and at least a dozen are visible on the skyscrapers in the neighborhood of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street.

American women will not appear in varied and startlingly colored wigs, all confident reports from Paris to the contrary. That, at least, is the verdict of C. Nestle, well known authority. Wild rumors have been brought to us of green hair for mornings and gold for the opera, while all the time our perfectly good, though maybe commonplace, locks were to be shorn or slicked down out of the way. But we are reassured. We are, however, to go in for some exceedingly elaborate coiffures. That much we will concede to the season's demands from the French capital. Sixteenth century pompadours and twentieth century partings are equally correct, just so there are waves in all of them. And now—whisper it gently—that the permanent wave has been perfected to a point where it can be applied to dyed hair, which has hitherto had to keep away from it, it's pretty certain that we are going to see a good many more waved heads than we have in previous seasons. But they won't be cerise or bright blue. And they'll be our own.

The new Paris models indicate that fashion's wheel has turned to the tube-like silhouette, varied occasionally by circular sections, ruffles or bands of fur. The shortened skirt is a feature; ten inches from the ground is correct for day wear. Dinner gowns vary from six to ten inches. Trains are revived for formal evening wear. Colors are sombre for street and brilliant for evening. Velvet, satin, moire and kasha are favorite materials.

The faking "direct salesmen" are at work again. They reap a harvest right here in New York, where reliable merchants are at our very doors and where we are supposed to be sophisticated. Broadcloths and Oriental rugs, "smuggled in and sold below cost," bootleg liquor "just off the ship," anything, it seems, can serve their purpose. The latest to call at our office was a hosiery salesman. He was selling wonderful stockings which he assured us were made by a high standing firm and they couldn't wear out or acquire a run. To prove it, he ran a nail file across it in a way that completely hypnotized one of our force. She made the partial payment and ordered them sent C. O. D. Of course they came by mail with no inspection allowed before paying and of course they aren't especially good, and the much talked of guarantee is missing. And the vanished salesman alone knows where or how they were made. Maybe he doesn't. At any rate it was not in the factory of the Onyx people, as he represented, and who, we discovered later, are going to a good deal of expense and trouble, to bring such fakers to justice.

New York friends of Harold Bell Wright have recently received from him packets of needles to try on their phonographs. They worked splendidly, giving a pure and brilliant tone and proving durable. The users learned that the needles were the spines of the Giant Cactus which Mr. Wright gathered while getting material for his recent adventure story, "The Mine With the Iron Door," in the Arizona Desert. Mr. Wright estimates that the average Giant Cactus yields about 1,000 perfect phonograph needles.

THE LORD ALWAYS PROVIDES, SAYS WOMAN WITH 23 ADOPTED CHILDREN

MRS. R. E. BEALS (INSET) AND HER 23 ADOPTED CHILDREN.

EDGEWOOD, Pa., Oct. 2.—Old Man H. C. L. couldn't battle down the mother love of Mrs. R. E. Beals here. When no children came to bless their union, she and her husband decided to adopt a few, just to make the home cheerful.

Today the "few" have multiplied to 23, ranging from 15 months to 15 years. And there is an additional adopted baby grown to womanhood and married out in the world.

The mythical old woman who lived in a shoe had nothing on Mrs. Beals.

Champion Ear Scrubber
As the country's champion foster mother and unrivaled scrubber of 23 sets of ears, all honors must go to her.

Her numerous brood is housed under one roof. They play together in one big yard. Eat together at one big long table faced by 23 little chairs. And sleep together in one big room containing 23 beds all white and downy as snow.

When papa Beals, who's a railroad engineer buys a present for one, he must buy a present for all.

Keeps Her Busy

And when Mrs. Beals isn't sewing torn trousers and mending rips and tears, she's preparing heaps and heaps of food for her juvenile platoon. The couple have been married 16 years and made their first adoption 12 years ago.

Mrs. Beals explains she always did want to be a missionary, and that when this opportunity was denied her, she satisfied her cravings of mother love and a desire to be of service to the world, by adopting friendless tots to whom heredity had been unkind.

She looks upon the old mansion in which her child regiment lives as the property of God and herself, merely as an instrument of divine will.

Trust In Prayer

Every cent Papa Beals earns goes into the 11-room house which echoes constantly to the tramp of little feet from cellar to attic.

And when the funds are low, or out, the children and their mother and father just get down and pray that things will be set to rights.

"We never are deprived of anything for long," Mrs. Beals says. "God watches out for us and we assist him by helping ourselves first. And then we have friends of course."

No one should imagine Mrs. Beals is a religious fanatic or anything of the sort. She is just a cheerful high-minded little woman, working her willing hands to the bone with never a regret.

Dogs or Kiddies

Officious busybodies have repeatedly tried to make trouble for her by seducing complaints to the authorities.

They could readily comprehend her caring for 23 dogs. But never 23 children.

Mrs. Beals never heeds these, and goes right along with her self-imposed task.

Of scrubbing 23 pairs of ears and cooking and cleaning all the live-long long day.

And there's a smile on her lips through it all, and on her husband's. Because they feel they are working for the God who said:

"Suffer little children to come unto me. For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Your Health

The Emergency Kit

Prevention is the watchword in all ranks of health seekers.

An emergency kit, home doctor or first aid outfit is a blessing. But a little advice on using it may be of help.

Cuts, scratches or bruises, lame limbs or emburred shoulders may call for a little help and if you try to be too strenuous and overdo "the thing" you may have to take care of a severe case of fatigue or fainting. "Sick stomach," from overeating, is also down on the program and a summer cold may come your way unsought. This is about all unless you have a more severe case to attend to, such as a bad cut or wound which may require the use of a tourniquet.

For the kit:

One-half ounce tincture of iodine in a strong bottle, to be applied on cuts or wounds by means of a small swab made from a small stick and a tuft of cotton. Two-ounce carton of absorbent cotton. A spool of zinc oxide adhesive tape, one inch wide. A large collapsible tube of plain petrolatum or zinc oxide or plain boric acid ointment. Any abrasure or burn from heat or acid or friction should be smeared with ointment and protected by small pieces of gauze held in place by tape.

Five or 10 years of bandages are also necessary, and are helpful in many ways. Also put in your kit a small vial of aromatic spirits of ammonia. A teaspoonful in two ounces of water (about one inch in a common drinking glass) is a good stimulant for fainting, nervous shock or collapse.

Use a seditz powder for your sick stomach and make up your mind not to overeat again. Don't forget the little scissors, some safety pins and a ball of twine. Do it at once and practice safety first.

Yes, France Has Nave

PARIS.—"Yes, We Have No Bananas," translated into French, is being sung all over Montmartre and newspapers here are explaining with great care its origin and meaning. "Oui, Nous N'avons Pas de Bananes," is the way it begins.
